

Bochum International Humanitarian Law Clinic

SoSe 2025

Prof. Dr. Pierre Thielbörger

- Visit lectures and conduct research on projects for real-life cooperation partners
- Professional legal education in the English legal language (§7 Ab.1 JAG NRW)
- Elective course in the Certificate Program of the Legal Faculty
- Preparation for a future career in an international environment

The Bochum International Humanitarian Law Clinic enables selected students to learn through experience by applying legal theory to real-world situations. The students conduct research on projects for real life cooperation partners, such as the German Red Cross. The different projects under the umbrella of the Bochum IHL Clinic may draw from any topic within the variety of legal issues currently challenging the field, including the scope of application of International Humanitarian Law, the legality of certain types of weaponry, as well as the relationship between IHL, human rights law, and refugee law. Participants of the IHL Clinic will get to have regular contact with the cooperation partners as well as exchange experiences with students from the EMA and NOHA Masters programs from other universities.

Information IFHV Website or Email to will.wright@rub.de

Application CV, motivation letter (max. 1 page & in English) and ToR to will.wright@rub.de by Tuesday, 08.04.2025 (11:59 pm)

